President Says U. S. and Russia Must Do 'Some Giving' for Real Peace

Eisenhower Gives
Appraisal of Meeting
In Nationwide Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower told the nation Monday night that both the United States and Russia must do "some giving" at next October's foreign ministers' conference if the "generals" of Geneva are to be moulded into peaceful settlements.

He said the fall meeting will be the "acid test" of the cold war opponents' "new spirit of reconciliation and cooperation" brought forth at last week's Big Four conference in Switzerland.

The President made clear that the United States is prepared for conciliation on its part.

He said the Big Four meeting made the world realize even more "that the United States will go to any length consistent with our concepts of decency and justice and right to attain peace."

But, he indicated, Russia must demonstrate its willingness to do the same when Secretary of State John Foster Dulles meets with the other Big Four foreign ministers in Geneva next fall.

While the President did not "belittle the obstacles lying ahead," he expressed hope that the "longing of mankind" for peace will continue to pressure world leaders "to advance constructively, not merely to reenact the dreary performances of the past."

That pressure for peace was felt at Geneva, he said.

The conference also heightened a "growing realization by all," the President said, "that nuclear warfare, pursued to the ultimate, could be practically race suicide."

British Labor Party Hits New Austerity

LONDON (AP)—The Labor Party ripped into the Conservative government's sudden anti-inflation crackdown today with a full-scale parliamentary attack and cries of "trouble, gloom and austerity again."

The Socialists demanded and got an immediate House of Commons debate on the government's five-point financial plan that sent the stock market into a multi-million dollar dive.

The program, announced Monday by Chancellor of the Exchequer R. A. Butler, cut government spending, ordered banks to tighten up loans and more than doubled down payments on installment plan buying.

It was a return to a small measure of wartime austerity in an effort to halt sharply rising prices and boost exports.

The government crackdown was in five parts:

1. It directed the Bank of England and through it the nation's commercial banks to achieve "positive and significant reduction" in lending.
2. It announced a drive for special economy in government spending overseas.
3. It asked cities and counties to cut capital expenditures, particularly on public housing.
4. It ordered a reduction in capital outlay in many nationalized industries. Such as railroads and coal mines.
5. It more than doubled from 15 per cent to 33 1/2 the required down payment on such consumer goods as automobiles, radio and television sets, refrigerators and washing machines.

It meant that to buy a low priced, $1,680 car on the "never never"—the British nickname for the installment plan—the motorists must pay $550 down. It will cost $75 to get home delivery on a 14 inch television set, and $19 on a $56 vacuum cleaner.

The strategy was to counteract inflation and boost exports. It would make the average Briton with a weekly wage of $25.20 think twice about installment plan buying and leave more items for export.

Mother of Seven Files $120,000 Dram Shop Suit

MARION, Ill. (AP)—A mother of seven children has filed a $120,000 dram shop suit against seven Williamson County taverns.

Mrs. Pansy Marie Norris charged that her husband, Seth Norris, drank liquor in the seven taverns named during 1953-54 and became a habitual drunkard.

Mrs. Norris charged her husband lost his $400-a-month income as a trucker and became indebted as a result of his drinking.

She asked $15,000 for herself and $15,000 for each of the seven children for total loss of support.

The seven tavern operators named in the suit are: Joe Marci, Herrin; Gertrude Lipe, Rolling View Night Club; Chris and Mary Caras, Marion; Susanna Preston, New Virginia Night Club; Grant Ellet, Blairsville; Mary Calca, Colp; and Amos Curry, Herrin.

Coroner's Jury Verdict Urges Three Be Held

Follows Testimony
During Inquest
Held at Eldorado

A coroner's inquest jury last night recommended that three young men from Murray, Ky., be held for grand jury investigation into the collision that killed three persons from near Thompsonville Saturday morning.

The jury returned a verdict that Tillman Reed, 72, his wife, Hattie, 65, and Lewis Hughes, 63, all of the Thompsonville area, came to their deaths as a result of a crash of cars driven by Hughes and Aaron Colson, 22, on Route 45 three miles north of Eldorado and said that "since alcoholic beverages were involved and since there was no testimony by Aaron Colson, it is recommended that Aaron Colson, James Alton and Franklin D. Houston be held for investigation by the grand jury."

Colson Refuses Statement

The verdict came after testimony from Alton and Houston said the trio had been drinking and after Coroner Elmer M. Gibbons told the jury that he went to Ferrell hospital where Colson refused to give him any statement. Mr. Gibbons conducted the inquest at the Eldorado city hall.

First witness was Warden Kimmel of near Thompsonville, a farmer and teacher who was driving about 300 feet behind Hughes in a group of Mt. Zion Freeville Baptist church members who were en route to a fish fry at Old River near New Haven, Ill.

Kimmel said he saw the car he later learned was driven by Colson pull out from behind a pickup truck and strike the left front part of the Hughes auto, sending the Hughes car rolling over into a field. He said that he and Hughes were driving along about 55 miles per hour. Hughes was going north, Colson south, he said.

Alma, Kimmel's wife, substantiated her husband's testimony.

Truck Driver Testifies

John Williams of Eldorado, driver of the pickup truck, said he was driving southward and was planning to make a left turn off Route 45 at Dodd crossing, and that he started making his signal a good distance from the crossing.

Williams, who maintains oil field pumps, said he didn't see the car coming up behind him but that he saw two cars approaching and was going along about five miles per hour in second gear waiting for them to pass so he could turn.

He said he didn't see, but heard, the crash, and looked backward to see a car rolling. He said he heard no brakes, no horn.

James Morris, Marion farmer who was ahead of the Hughes auto, said he saw the collision through his rear view mirror. He said that when he passed the pickup which was going in the opposite direction the driver was making a hand signal to turn left. He was only 150-200 feet of the Hughes car at the time of the crash, he said.

Going "Nowhere in Particular"

Alton, one of the Murray trio, said the group left Murray about 2 a. m. Saturday and started out for "nowhere in particular." He testified he was lying back in the rear seat talking with Alton, who was in the front, when the crash happened and that he didn't see truck or car.

Alton testified that each of the group had consumed about five cans of beer between 2 and 6 a. m. and that when they got to Texas

Reserve Bill Passed, Sent To Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today completed congressional action on a sweeping new military reserve plan requiring compulsory reserve training of youths in the future.

The final Senate action—adoption of a conference report adjusting Senate and House differences—was taken by voice vote.

From the Senate, the bill goes to President Eisenhower, who requested a strengthened reserve training plan in January as part of the administration's long-range "new look" military strategy. The plan is designed to build up a large, trained ready reserve to offset reductions in the active ground forces.

The reserve plan finally worked out in Congress falls short of the administration's plan in several important details but follows the general outlines of Mr. Eisenhower's original proposals.

The House gave its final approval to the compromise reserve legislation Monday by a 315-7 vote.

The bill—an Eisenhower legislative "must" for this session of congress—is one of the most far-reaching military manpower plans ever approved by Congress. For the first time in the nation's history, young men would be required to participate in the reserves following active duty.

The bill specifies that all young men entering the military service in the future must serve a total of five years in the active and ready reserve force. Thus, a draftee would have to serve two years on active duty and then three years in the ready reserve, attending weekly drills and summer training.

On Iceland Honor
Guard for Eisenhower

Harrisburg had its representative on the committee that welcomed to Iceland President Eisenhower on his way to the conference by the Big Four at Geneva. George Henley, ADAN, in a letter to his grandfathers and grandmothers, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Henley, said that he was one of seven each from the Navy, Army and Air Force that served as a personal guard of honor to the President during his two-hour stay in Iceland. Cpl. Henley, who is in the Navy Air Corps, expects to return to Harrisburg on leave in early September.

Centralia Refuses

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP)—Centralia has refused to join the parade of nearly 80 Illinois municipalities adopting the new 1/2 cent city sales tax.

The Centralia City Council Monday night voted 3-2 against the tax.

However, Finance Commissioner Louis Niemeier said before the vote was taken he would "bring the matter up again" if the tax proposal was defeated. Niemeier and commissioner Dan Stover voted for the tax.

Death Takes Miss Amy Cain, 69

Miss Amy Cain, 69, native and life long resident of Saline county, died yesterday at 6:30 p. m. at her home, 815 West Sloan. She was the sister of the late Tom Cain and the last survivor of the immediate family.

Miss Cain was the daughter of the late James P. Cain and Catherine Moore Cain.

The body will lie in state at the Gibbons funeral home where the funeral will be Wednesday at 2 p. m. Rev. Ernest Ammon of Carrier Mills will officiate and burial will be in the Cain family cemetery.

Miss Cain is survived by a nephew, Gordon Cain, of Harrisburg, and a niece and nephew whom she partially raised, Mrs. Harold Diehl Staunton, Ill., and J. L. Parks, Pontiac, Mich.

Official Held In $678,000 Bank Shortage

TWENTY NINE PALMS, Calif. (AP)—The president of a bank which was forced to close because of a missing $678,000 said today it broke his heart to hear his highly regarded vice president had been arrested for embezzlement.

J. P. Wasserburger, president of the Joshua Monument National Bank of Twenty Nine Palms, sobbed when he heard banker-race horse owner Roscoe D. Coon, 50, had been picked up by federal authorities at a race track.

"This is a terrible blow to us," Wasserburger said. "It just broke my heart. I just can't believe that Coon would do anything wrong. We have had no reason at all to doubt his honesty."

Coon, vice president and cashier of the desert community's only bank, was arrested at Del Mar Race track Monday while awaiting the Wednesday opening of the summer meeting to race his stable of thoroughbreds. Del Mar is about 100 miles southwest of here.

Coon, who is a former vice president of the Pasadena, Calif., Junior Chamber of Commerce, was arrested in San Diego before U. S. Commissioner Betty Marshall Graydon, who remanded him to county jail in lieu of $50,000 bail. His arraignment was continued until Wednesday.

"I am amazed," declared Coon indignantly. "I don't have any idea of what this is all about."

The bank was forced to close its doors Monday and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. was appointed its receiver. Treasury Department bank examiners still are checking the closed bank's books.

William B. Hatch Jr., a surveyor who is a member of the bank's board of directors, said "only a few at worst" of the bank's depositors would be hurt by the closing.

FBI agents said Coon was charged with embezzling bank funds by ordering funds from the Los Angeles branch of the Federal Reserve Bank and intercepting the money at the Twenty Nine Palms post office before it could reach the bank.

Contracts for Rebuilding Junior High School Awarded by Board

Negotiate
Lower, Acceptable
Bids at Meeting

Contracts for rebuilding the old section of the Harrisburg Junior High school, destroyed by fire January 1, were awarded orally by the District 43 school board Monday evening, and will be binding as soon as formal documents are drawn and signed.

The general construction contract was awarded to Midland Construction Co. of Harrisburg for $190,278. Heating and ventilating went to Heister's of Harrisburg for $32,262. Plumbing was awarded to LeTemp of Harrisburg for $14,497 and electrical to Sutton of Eldorado for $16,973.

These firms were apparent low bidders when bids were opened a week ago, but the total bids were about ten per cent more than funds available.

At last night's session the bidders were present and negotiated the lower, acceptable figures by making changes in the plans and in certain fixed building equipment.

Scheduled for Occupancy in 1956

The higher bids of a week ago were not a surprise, according to school board officials and the architect E. D. Brown. It had been anticipated that some items would have to be removed, but bids were received on the original plans in the faint hope that no changes would be required.

The new construction will be along the same lines as the existing walls of the old building, with some of the classrooms rearranged so they will be larger. Toilets for students will be added on the top floor to eliminate traffic to the basement toilets. The building will be fireproof.

One of the improvements of which students, school officials and patrons likely will be most proud is the auditorium, which will be on the first floor level, and should have better acoustical qualities than the old auditorium—study hall.

County Trustees
Annex Territory
To School Dist. 43

The Saline County Board of School Trustees last night annexed territory to Harrisburg City School District 43 as was requested by petition and joined four dissolved districts to adjacent territory.

The petition to detach a small amount of territory from South Wilford District 42 and add it to District 43 was approved after no opposition appeared at the hearing, held at the court house. The change affects four families.

According to law, when a school district does not meet state standards for two consecutive years, the district is automatically dissolved and four such districts in Saline county became dissolved as of July 1.

Last night Fisher Bend District 89 and New Hope District 6 were added to Galatia District 4; North Walnut Grove District 48 was divided, with most of the area going into Pierson District 59 and a part of the district joining with Ledford District 47.

Also, New Hope District 72 in Cottage township was divided into three areas for annexation to other areas, with a large-sized delegation on hand to state its views on the matter. Part of the district went into Muddy District 40, part into Harrisburg District 43, and part into Cottage Grove District 73.

It is anticipated that work will start almost immediately. There is a possibility that some of the building will be ready after the Christmas holidays, but the entire structure is not scheduled for occupancy before the beginning of the school term in September, 1956.

Eisenhower
Briefed on Actions
By Air Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators were told today that Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., knew that Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott's private firm sought a business deal with a defense contractor.

Air Force General Counsel John A. Johnson testified at a public hearing of the Senate investigating subcommittee that Brownell "expressed no disagreement" with the idea that Talbott was acting legally in pursuing the deal. But he said Brownell suggested delaying action on the deal.

President Eisenhower was being brought up to date on his air secretary's outside business activities.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the President received additional briefings on the subject from his staff today. These briefings supplemented a preliminary report given the President Monday.

Hagerty said "no comment" when asked about Mr. Eisenhower's reactions. He also said he knows of no appointment for Talbott at the White House.

Meanwhile, Talbott's attorney said the Air Force secretary wants to return for more testimony before the subcommittee, which is conducting an inquiry into his activities on behalf of Paul B. Mulligan & Co., a management engineering firm in which he is a partner.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said the group would meet later today to consider which witnesses to call in its investigation.

Propriety Under Study

The subcommittee is investigating the propriety of Talbott's continued association with the Mulligan firm, which has been employed by a number of big defense contractors as well as other large corporations.

Previous testimony showed that Talbott had received $132,032 in profits from the firm since he became Air Force secretary.

The subcommittee also has obtained copies of letters which Talbott wrote from his Pentagon office on Air Force stationery seeking to drum up business for the firm.

Johnson was called to the witness stand today for questioning about Talbott's efforts to land a contract for the Mulligan firm with Radio Corporation of America, a major defense contractor.

The senators specifically wanted to know if Johnson, as government-salaried official lawyer for the Air Force, had acted as Talbott's private attorney in talks with RCA officials who questioned the propriety of a defense contractor doing business with Talbott's firm.

Sees No Conflict

That's Where the Tall Corn Grows

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

Drew Pearson Says: Eden loses as Balance-of-Power Broker Between U.S. and Russia; Eisenhower Ignored British, French in Offering Air-Inspection Plan to Bulgarians; The Believes Two Most Powerful Nations Should Work Together For Peace.

GENEVA — In any summary of results of the Big Four conference, two important things stand out. 1. Prime Minister Anthony Eden, who was responsible for calling the conference, failed to be its dominant leader. He lost out completely to the charm and the spontaneous, sometimes impetuous, diplomacy of President Eisenhower. More important he lost the balance-of-power position of an honest broker between the USA and the USSR which Winston Churchill so long occupied.

2. Eisenhower, with his dramatic air-reconnaissance inspection plan, reverted in principle to the Russian-American alliance which Marshal Stalin proposed toward the end of World War II and which Roosevelt rejected.

Though they didn't say so publicly, Ike's proposal scared the British half out of their wits. It also so horrified the German observers here that they contacted Chancellor Konrad Adenauer the night after Ike's air-inspection speech to warn against Germany's being left out in the cold by Russian-American friendship and that Adenauer himself had better do some dealing on the side with Russia.

For President Eisenhower, in launching his dramatic air-inspection plan, had deliberately ignored the French and British and proposed that Russia and the United States, in effect, guarantee the peace of the world.

BLUNT REASONING

Toward the end of World War II Stalin proposed to Roosevelt that their two countries form an alliance and literally divide up the world between them. Stalin's blunt reasoning was that there were only two strong powers left in the world — Russia and the United States. Therefore, if they agreed to dominate the world, they could run it their own way and keep the peace.

Around Roosevelt were advisers who leaned toward accepting Stalin's idea, among them Harry Hopkins and Ambassador Joseph Davies. They believed the United States should be realistic, that the might of the British Empire was waning, and if the United States worked out an alliance with Russia the peace of the world would be guaranteed for many years.

Averell Harriman and Jimmy Forrestal were opposed to Stalin's plan, but its most vigorous opponent was Winston Churchill who, all during the war, had needed Roosevelt against Russia. Roosevelt, in the end, vetoed the Stalin plan and adopted the collective security of the United Nations which included all the allies plus the smaller nations.

However, Roosevelt suggested that Stalin and Churchill might agree on certain areas and a division of the Balkans was actually worked out at Tehran between Stalin and Churchill whereby Russia took into its sphere of influence Rumania and Bulgaria, with Britain taking over Greece and Yugoslavia. Stalin even advised Churchill that the man who really controlled Yugoslavia was Tito and it was this deal at Tehran that caused the United States and Britain to confound the world by deserting Draja Mikailovitch for Tito.

Growing irritations toward the end of the war finally disrupted this agreement and many diplomatic observers believe it was Stalin's suspicion of Roosevelt's refusal to form an alliance that contributed heavily to the bitterness that erupted around V-E Day. Stalin's suspicious Asiatic reasoning led him to the conclusion that, if the United States wouldn't form an alliance for world spheres of influence, then it must automatically seek to disrupt Russian spheres.

President Eisenhower hadn't the slightest thought of forming any Russian alliance when he made his air-inspection proposal at Geneva. He believed the two most powerful nations which hold the world's peace in the palms of their hands should get together to keep the peace. Nevertheless, his proposal, plus the new personal friendships formed by Ike with the Russians, caused a lot of worry among the allied diplomats who believe in divide and rule.

LIKE HIS OWN BROKER

It was Eden, worried over winning the British election and achieving his great ambition to be Prime Minister of England, who finally persuaded Dulles last April to consent to the Big Four meeting. But it was the same Eden who took a back seat completely during the conference he inspired.

It was shortly after Roosevelt's death that Churchill came to Fulton, Missouri, in 1946 and, on the same platform with President Truman, launched a bitter denunciation of Russia. That speech marked an important period in power politics. Before it, under Roosevelt, the United States held the balance of power and played Russia off against Britain. After that speech, Britain held the balance of power and has been playing the United States off against Russia.

And, having forgotten his own bitter attack on Russia at Fulton, Churchill for three years has been urging Eisenhower to attend a Big Four conference to patch up the West's friendship with Russia. Churchill, once the attacker and provocateur, had become peace-maker.

But when that long-awaited conference was held here, Anthony Eden lost out in his role of honest broker. Eisenhower stepped forward to do his own negotiating and to handle his own brokerage business for international peace. It looks like the United States will hold the balance of power from now on.

Army Appeals for Piggy Bank Pennies in Shortage in Germany

HEIDELBERG, Germany — The Army appealed to servicemen and their families today to break open piggy banks and give back pennies.

A shortage of one-cent pieces has developed despite shipment of "several million" pennies overseas during the past year, officials said. The penny is the only coin used in American installations in West Germany. Military scrip is used in all other denominations.

"He's always at me to do things that I never thought I was capable of achieving vocally," says Ann. "If I can ever build my voice sufficiently, perhaps opera will be possible. But you can't do it overnight. You have to build your voice. You have to train so that you can sing for four hours at a stretch. To me opera is the epitome of everything. I'd love to sing Puccini."

Before you pay over $2300 for a smaller car...

FIND OUT HOW MUCH MORE THE BIG, 188-HP MERCURY GIVES YOU FOR YOUR MONEY

Enjoy all these big-car, fine-car features for less than the deluxe models of the "low-price" 3*

1. BIG SIZE—BIG WEIGHT. Mercurys are bigger all over than cars in the low-price field. Bigger in length . . . bigger in width . . . bigger in wheel base. The Mercury Monterey shown weighs close to 3700 pounds . . . gives you big-car stability on the road.

2. SUPER-TORQUE POWER. Mercurys have more power than ever — 188 hp in Customs and Montreys; 198 hp in Montclairs. More important, is the new way this power is put to work in the everyday driving ranges—for smoother, effortless getaways . . . safer passing.

3. EXCLUSIVE STYLING. Mercury's beauty is fresh, distinctive—shared by no other car on the road. Lines are clean, smooth as silk. Use of chrome and color is simple, beautiful, in good taste. Mercury's standout styling is available in all 11 models in 3 series.

4. ULTRA-SMART AND LUXURIOUS INTERIORS. Two-tone interior color combinations are available in every model. So are specially designed fabrics and patterns—instead of ordinary upholstery. So beautiful you'll want to leave the door open!

5. 4-BARREL VACUUM CARBURETOR is standard on every model at no extra cost. You enjoy 2-barrel economy for normal driving, 4-barrel pickup for getaways and passing. Unique anti-fouling high-compression spark plugs help provide top performance in all speed ranges.

6. AND YOU SAVE ON FUTURE RESALE VALUE. Mercury consistently leads its class in high resale value, according to independent reports. You protect your investment—can expect to get back more of the original purchase price when you trade again.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Porter and Harry Rayfield attended the closing session Sunday of the annual convention of the Illinois State Association of American War Dads and Auxiliary held in Robinson, Ill.

The election and installation of officers for the following year were held Sunday afternoon. Norman Kendall of Pontiac was elected as state president and Mrs. William Fanning, Jacksonville, state president of the auxiliary. All state officers including the state directors of War Dads were installed by the national president, Horace C. Fuller of Endicott, N. Y.

Officers and council women of the auxiliary were installed by Mrs. Roy Ackman, Macomb, national vice president of the auxiliary.

Alvin Porter was elected as a state director and Mrs. Porter was elected to the state auxiliary council.

Pay Final Tribute to Hull

WASHINGTON — National leaders and diplomats from every part of the world paid final tribute to former Secretary of State Cordell Hull today at funeral services.

About 2,000 persons, including top-ranking diplomats of 50 countries and many present and past government officials, attended the services.

The only close relative at the funeral was Hull's niece, Mrs. Katherine Ethridge, San Antonio, Tex., who had taken care of him since Mrs. Hull's death on March 26, 1954.

Services were at Washington Cathedral with the Very Rev. Francis B. Sayre Jr., dean of the cathedral, officiating. The 83-year-old statesman was buried in the cathedral crypt by the side of his wife, Jesse, and near the tomb of former President Woodrow Wilson.

Cost of Living Increases Slightly

WASHINGTON — The cost of living rose in June for the first time since November, the government reported today.

Mainly because of higher food prices, the Bureau of Labor Statistics index of consumer prices went up .2 of 1 per cent between mid-May and mid-June to 114.4 per cent of average 1947-49 prices.

Acting BLS Commissioner Arny-Joy Wickens said, however, that she expected "no marked change" in the July and August cost of living indexes.

The June index was .6 of 1 per cent below the June, 1954, level. Since November, when it rose to 114.6 per cent of the base period, the index has declined or stood still from month to month.

Recommend Grand Jury Action for Three

City going north, they decided to turn around and go back to Murfreesboro. He said the car was going 60-65 miles per hour.

Houston said he had had four or five beers and that the group might have drunk a can or two of Texas City, where they stopped to turn around. But, he added, he was not sure.

He, too, said he did not see the pickup truck or the Hughes car because he was turned around talking to Hughes in the rear seat. He also said the car did not belong to Colson, but to his brother.

After Dr. Robert V. Ferrell described the injuries of the dead, State Policeman Guhrig Alexander took the stand. He said that he talked with Alton and Houston at Ferrell hospital after his investigation at the scene and the youths definitely had been drinking. In response to further questioning, he said that in his opinion they were intoxicated.

At the scene, he said, he found seven unopened beer cans and two opened beer cans with some of the contents still in them when he looked inside the car. He also said he saw no skid marks.

Brownell Consulted On Talbott Deal

he did not act as Talbott's private attorney in the RCA contract talks last January. He said he simply prepared a memorandum for Talbott stating that Talbott's membership in the Mulligan firm did not violate the conflict-of-interest laws.

Johnson said that Loftus E. Becker, a Washington attorney for RCA, informed him last Jan. 5 that RCA would not be satisfied with this, but wanted approval from the attorney general.

The tall, lean, youngish-looking general counsel said Talbott asked him to discuss the question with Brownell.

Johnson said he prepared "in draft form a memorandum to secretary Talbott stating the conclusion that the secretary's retention of a 50 per cent interest in Paul B. Mulligan & Co. and his sharing of the firm's profits during his tenure of office . . . violated no provision of law."

He said he went to see Brownell last Jan. 6.

"I showed him my draft memorandum to the secretary," Johnson said in a prepared statement. "He expressed no disagreement with the legal conclusion stated in the memorandum."

"However, the attorney general said that he would like to take the matter under consideration. The attorney general said that I could expect to hear from him in a day or two and that in the meantime I should take no further action in the matter."

But Johnson said he never heard from Brownell again about the RCA deal.

Johnson said that when Talbott returned to town Jan. 8, he told the secretary about his conference with Brownell.

Abandon RCA Contract
"I believe that the secretary told me at that time that there would be no contract between Paul B. Mulligan & Co. and RCA," Johnson said. "My diary contains an entry under date of Jan. 11, 1955, that secretary Talbott told me to take no further action in the matter."

RCA Atty. Samuel E. Ewing testified Monday that Talbott named to him a dozen other Air Force contractors which had contracts with the management firm, Paul B. Mulligan & Co. He said Talbott was "annoyed" and asked why RCA was so "high and mighty" as to balk at signing with Talbott's firm while he was air secretary.

Turncoats Face Arrest For Court Martial When Ship Docked in U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Apparent confusion within the Pentagon today left still in doubt the future of three turncoat ex-GIs who defected to Red China and then decided to return home.

An Army spokesman said Monday night the three would be arrested for court martial as soon as their ship docks in San Francisco Friday.

But a Defense Department spokesman said today the matter still is being investigated by the Defense and Justice departments and that no decision has been reached on what action to take.

Film Star Files Suit Against Magazine

HOLLYWOOD — Film star Elizabeth Scott charged Confidential Magazine in a 2½ million dollar suit today with implying she was "prone to indecent, illegal and highly offensive acts in her private and public life."

The suit was the fourth filed recently by well-known Hollywood figures against expose-type magazines and the third against Confidential Magazine. The suits against Confidential now total 6½ million dollars.

Russians Tour Caterpillar Tractor Plant

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Two Russian engineers toured a giant tractor plant today and got their first look at an American assembly line.

The Caterpillar Tractor Co. opened its gates to Aleksandr Ezhevski and Nikolai Bogach, members of the Soviet delegation visiting this country in search of ways to boost Russian farm output.

They bubbled over with friendliness as they launched their tour of the 300-acre plant shortly after breakfast, posing willingly for pictures and joking with newsmen through interpreters.

Ezhevski, who is assistant to the minister in charge of agriculture implement production, commented in jest about the "punishment" newsmen were giving him and Bogach.

He observed this probably was "in retaliation" for what a similar group of American farm experts "are going through with Russian newspapermen" in the Soviet Union now.

Extra Guide Added

Caterpillar assigned a native Russian, 37-year-old Alex Goloff, as an extra interpreter and guide for the two engineers.

Goloff, an engineer attached to the Caterpillar translation service, was born in Russia and came to this country at 17. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan. William J. Alberti, 27, in charge

Union Leader to Ask 40-Hour Week For Prison Guards

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A union leader who said he has organized employees of two state prisons, today said he will move soon and ask for a 40-hour work week and paid holidays for prison guards and other employees.

But State Public Safety Director Joseph D. Bibb said he could give the union only a "respectful audience" only any demand involving "wages, working conditions or hours."

"We are pretty limited in anything we can do about these things because of laws and appropriations passed by the Legislature," Bibb said.

C. S. "Tiny" Groetke, business agent of the State, County and Municipal Employees Union of the AFL, said, "We are planning to of the plant's escort service, said the Russians were being given the same tour as any other visitors, though they could stop and inspect things more closely whenever they wished.

Bogach had to check his camera when he arrived at the plant. However, a company official said this was a general rule for all visitors, and the Russians would be offered photos of the plant as they leave.

See Diesels Made

The tour program called first for a visit to the plant foundry, then to the building where diesels are made, and then lunch.

In the afternoon Bogach and Ezhevski were to see the steel fabrication building, the structure where the D9 tractor is assembled, and Building "X" where five smaller models are put together.

go to the director for holidays off, holiday pay and the 40 hour week."

Groetke said the union will come in with a "full program" for prison wages, hours and working conditions at the 1937 legislative session, "the same way we have for firemen and policemen the last few sessions."

He said Asst. State Labor Director Joseph D. Bibb said he could give the union only a "respectful audience" only any demand involving "wages, working conditions or hours."

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Death Has 3 Lives

XXVI

The morgue attendant shuffled some cards on the desk.

"You bet, Chief. Like I said, I've had two customers before Shayne and Rourke. Albert Jenkins, 1126 12th Street, Miami. And then there was a young lady. Came in just as I was bringing him back. No luck for him. Or maybe it was luck for him. He'd feared it was his daughter. Didn't get the young lady's name. Friend of Mr. Jenkins, I gathered, and come here for the same reason. She was standing here waiting to register, and soon he saw her he went to her fast and grabbed her arm and said something like: 'No need for you to go through the ordeal of looking at her, my dear. Thank God, it isn't Helen.' Or something like that. Then he hurried her out the door and that's the last I saw of them."

Shayne leaned forward with his palms flat on the desk and said harshly, "Describe the young lady."

"Well, I... She was right pretty, I noticed. Pert-looking. Maybe 25. Brown hair, I guess. She wasn't wearing any hat. Brown eyes, maybe. You know how it is."

"Just saw her that one little minute before she went out."

"What was she wearing?" demanded Shayne hoarsely.

He held his breath while the attendant haltingly described the dark wool suit Shayne had last seen Lucy wearing, and a light wrap which he immediately recognized as hers.

Will Gentry tried to break in impatiently but Shayne silenced him with a savage gesture.

"This Jenkins! What did he look like?"

"Nothing particular. Sort of heavy-built and fiftysix. Wearing a gray suit and gray hat pulled down so you couldn't see his face so good. Almighty worried, he was, about seeing whether she was his girl or not."

"Wait a minute, Will." Shayne's voice was like a whiplash as he prevented the chief from speaking again. "Tell me this one thing. Any report from Miami Beach tonight about a man that might have been picked up on the Causeway after the car went over the edge?"

Will Gentry studied him curiously for a moment. "You mean the car that had the woman in the trunk? The one where you and Lucy just happened to be rowing out on the bay nearby when it occurred? The one that showed signs of some sort of explosive having gone off in the front seat? Just about the same amount of damage that might have been caused by that gas bomb you got Pete Fairwell to make up for you this evening?"

"All right," agreed Shayne grimly. "That one. Though I didn't know about the signs of an explosion."

"Why, yes," said Gentry, rocking back on his heels and taking a thick black cigar from his pocket while he studied the redhead intently. "My men did get a report that some passing motorist maybe picked up the driver and took him away from the scene before they got there. No one has come forward to verify the story. Can you?"

He shot the two final words out like two rocks.

"Not personally. Tim Rourke got the story from his paper. I want to know one more thing, Will. Any slugging or anything like that reported on the Beach in the last hour?"

Will Gentry rolled the cigar slowly back and forth from one corner of his mouth to the other, his shrewd eyes hooded by wrinkled brows.

"As a matter-of-fact a man was picked up unconscious just beyond the end of the Causeway about 15 minutes after the sedan went over. Apparently slugged over the head and tossed out of a moving car. He was a citizen of Miami Beach who is supposed to have been driving home from Miami about that time. Any more questions you feel like asking right now, Mike? Or is it my turn?" His voice was deceptively even and calm, but there was a note of iron in it that warned of thinning patience.

"I don't think I need to ask any more questions," said Shayne. He started out of the morgue fast.

Will Gentry jerked his coat open and drew a .38 from his shoulder holster. His voice was like ice as he ordered: "Halt, Shayne. I'll shoot if you go through that door."

The gun remained steady in Gentry's hand. He jerked his head in a curt negative. "You're going to headquarters with me, Shayne. You and Tim Rourke both. When you've told me everything you know about this, the police will take over, Mike, I mean it."

"But Lucy..."

"Lucy Hamilton is a woman exactly like the one downstairs. Exactly like the one strangled on 18th Street tonight. We'll do exactly the same to protect her as we did to protect them."

"If you think I'm going to sit on my hands until Lucy's corpse turns up, you're crazy."

"You'll sit behind bars if you want it that way." Will Gentry's voice was inflexible and he made no move to holster his gun. "It's my own lunch that one or both of those other women would still be alive if you hadn't tried to play God tonight. If you hold out on us now, it'll be Lucy you're holding out on. I'm chief of police in Miami, and I'm still running my department the best I can with all the interference I get from smart private dicks."

Ike Reveals Bulganin Expressed Hope He Will Seek Re-Election

WASHINGTON — Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin told President Eisenhower in Geneva that he hopes Mr. Eisenhower will run for re-election, it was learned today.

The President related the incident to congressional leaders at the White House Monday. One congressman asked Mr. Eisenhower what his answer was to Bulganin, and the conference was disrupted by laughter. Whether he will run again is one of Mr. Eisenhower's most guarded political secrets.

The President replied that he simply smiled at Bulganin, and that Bulganin smiled back in apparent understanding.

J. LIONPAW MOUTHWASH -- He never fails!!

A plump, bright-eyed, little man, who learned his profession from forgotten old mountain fakers, is the "merger wizard" of the business world today. J. Lionpaw Mouthwash's first triumph was his merger of the Black Reducing Pill Co. with the White Fattening Pill Co. He next merged the Yale Permanent Paint Co. with the Harvard Instant Paint-Remover Co., followed by his incredible merger of the Hair Straightener Corporation of America with the Hair Curling Corporation of America. Washington is jittery over the rumor that he next plans to merge the Republican and Democratic parties. "Mergers are simple," he says. "Everyone, from

Service on Leave Battles Skunks For Family Home

EAST PATERSON, N. J. — Henry Cauceglia, a serviceman on leave, struggled with a family of skunks today for possession of his family home.

Cauceglia arrived home Sunday. His parents were on vacation. But a family of skunks had homesteaded in the basement of his parents' home.

A mother skunk had chewed through a wire screen on the basement of the house and entered through an open window.

Cauceglia tried, without success, to lure the skunks outside with a trail of bacon on a board.

Game Warden Louis De Meritt spent two hours trying to coax the animals outside. He failed.

Cauceglia said he was reluctant to have police shoot the skunks. He left the basement window open and hoped they would leave of their own accord.

Daughter-in-Law of Maj. Gen. Donovan Found Dead in Bed

SOUTH DARTMOUTH, Mass. — No outward signs of violence were detected in the death of the daughter-in-law of retired Maj. Gen. William J. (Wild Bill) Donovan, a medical examiner said today.

Dr. William Rosen of New Bedford said that a further toxicological autopsy in the death of Mrs. Mary Grandin Donovan, 37, would be performed at the Harvard University School of Legal Medicine in Boston.

Mrs. Donovan was found dead in bed at the general's summer home here Monday.

Her husband, David Donovan, was notified at the couple's Berryville, Va., home. He and General Donovan, who was in upstate New York, were to arrive here today.

Mrs. Donovan, mother of five children, arrived here from Berryville, Va., last Friday with her daughter Patricia, 14.

Pilot Praised for Crash Landing Jet to Avoid Hitting Autos

MADISON, Wis. — Air Force officials today praised a heroic jet fighter pilot who crash-landed his Sabre Jet, risking his life to avoid hitting automobiles.

The pilot, 1st Lt. John F. Churchill, 25, Madison, N. J., was not injured when his plane skidded across U. S. 51, went through a fence and came to rest on Truax Field here Monday.

Lt. Ralph Rosengarden, the Air Base's information officer, said "Churchill could have bailed out with no chance of losing his own life. But he might have hit a car. He even stalled the plane to take a look for cars before coming across the highway."

Reeder Rites at Eldorado Wednesday

Funeral services for Mrs. Ottilie Reeder, 2104 Illinois Avenue, Eldorado, who died Sunday at 5:10 p. m., will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. at the Wolf Creek Primitive Baptist church. Elder T. Leo Dodd, assisted by Elder Aaron Reeder, will officiate and burial will be in Wolf Creek cemetery. The body lies in state at the Bean and Tanner funeral home.

By Al Capp GOP Congress Leaders Discuss Adjournment With Eisenhower

By United Press

Republican congressional leaders said today they still are shooting for adjournment Saturday, but — House GOP Leader Joseph W. Martin r. (Mass.) said he personally believes the actual quitting date will be around "the middle of next week."

Martin noted that the House, which usually gets its work done ahead of the Senate, still has "considerable legislation" to handle.

The leaders discussed legislative matters with President Eisenhower for two hours.

Chas. L. Wallace, 82, Of Equality Dies

Charles L. Wallace, 82, whose home was in Equality, died Monday morning at the Good Shepherd nursing home in Eldorado.

Services will be held for him Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Church of God in Equality. The pastor, Rev. Lawrence Gibson, will officiate and burial will be the Equality city cemetery.

The body is at the A. K. Moore funeral home. Mr. Wallace is survived by four sons, four daughters, 27 grandchildren and 42 great grandchildren.

Rites Wednesday for Cpl. Terry Downen

The body of Cpl. Terry Downen who died in his sleep Saturday night at the home of his brother, Robert, in Shawneetown, now lies in state at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Downen, on Omaha RFD.

The funeral will be Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Asbury Methodist church east of Ridgway. Rev. Joe Harris will officiate and burial will be in the church cemetery.

Royal Dressmaker Wows London with New 'Slink' Line

LONDON — Norman Hartnell, the man who designs dresses for the Queen, wowed London today with a naughty and alluring collection of tube-like dresses that made his models wobble instead of walk.

The royal dressmaker, as he hooes his position, formally ignores the yearly scramble to create gasp-producing clothes and turns out traditional lines and patterns. But this time the critics were electrified.

"The naughtiest and most alluring collection seen in London for a long time," one of them gasped.

The shocker came when a sleeveless model with a wicked air minced on to the floor in a black velvet evening dress corseted from high above the waist to the knees.

It revealed every line of the figure in a tube-like embrace and then swirled about the ankles in velvety folds.

It was "The Slink" that harked back to the 1920s when 54-year-old Hartnell was in his own 20s.

"It's the new Hartnell line and it will go on forever," the royal dressmaker said.

Investigate Rumors Bodies of 22 Killed In Air Crash Robbed

CHICAGO — A coroner's investigation was launched today into rumors that the bodies of 22 persons killed in an airliner crash were looted.

Coroner Walter J. McCarron said he had heard "talk" that the bodies were robbed following Chicago's worst air crash at Midway Field July 17.

Some of the victims were found without any money at all among their personal effects, McCarron said. The total of money found on the 22 bodies reached $251.

"I believe the looters were private citizens who had masqueraded as policemen by showing phony badges, cards, and stars," McCarron said.

Snake Cultist Dies from Bite Of Rattlesnake

ALTHA, Fla. — Far-flung disciples of the founder of a mountain snake handling cult mourned today his death from a diamond-back rattlesnake's bite.

The body of George Went Hensley, 70-year-old prophet of serpent defiance, who died Monday of a bite he received at a Sunday prayer service, was placed on view for expected crowds at a Marianna, Fla., funeral home.

Sheriff G. C. Guilford of Calhoun County said that Hensley was bitten here Sunday afternoon as he was replacing in a box the huge snake he had held entwined about his neck and face during a prayer service.

Guilford said he arrived Sunday night at the home of Rhode Roberts, where Hensley was taken, and found "about 100 people milling around the place and praying for him."

Guilford said the zealot died Monday morning without having received any medical attention. His widow, Sallie, about 60, refused to authorize an inquest, Guilford said, so he listed the death as a "suicide."

A toll of 12 fatal bites in various snake-handling sects reported since 1940 has resulted in laws forbidding the custom in Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia and Florida. Hensley's was the 13th death.

Cary Middlecoff, Doug Ford Play For PGA Title

NORTHVILLE, Mich. — Cary Middlecoff took aim today on the only major U. S. golf title he never has won and, Doug Ford, his opponent in the 36-hole PGA championship match, was shooting for the title in his first try.

They gained the final round Monday by identical scores of 4 and 3. Middlecoff turned back Tommy Bolt of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Ford brushed aside blond Shelley Mayfield of Westbury, N. Y.

So today these two par-shattering golfers, who both play out of Kiamasha Lake, N. Y., met in the match which means more to the pros than any other championship, although the first place money is only $5,000. But the cash value of it goes far beyond that in endorsements, sporting goods manufacturers' affiliations and exhibitions, more than triple that golfing jacks pot.

Both of them found the key to their victories on the par five 507-yard 17th hole of the Meadowbrook Country Club course. Both of them eagled the hole to go 1 up. From that point in, it was easy.

Middlecoff, dead-tired from the gruelling 1 up 40-hole triumph he had scored over Jack Burke in the quarter-finals on Sunday, knocked his No. 3 iron second 20 feet from the cup and sank the putt. Ford, shooting the best golf of any player in the tournament, put his No. 1 wood second 10 feet from the flag and also sank the eagle putt.

Middlecoff was favored, although he trailed Ford in the par-shattering which has featured this 37th annual PGA tourney. Ford was 33 under par for 161 holes going into today's final, while Middlecoff was 24 under for 171 holes.

Ford, who will be 33 in two weeks, has been a pro six years, but because he filed his entry application to the wrong address last year was not eligible to compete in the PGA. A golfer must be a professional five years to become eligible.

Middlecoff went to the semi-finals last year, bowing to Walter Burke in an extra hole match. Ford had the percentages going against him. Only one first time competitor ever has won the title—20-year-old Tom Creay of Albany, N. Y., in 1931. Also, Ford won the qualifying round medal with a seven under par 135 and only three medalists ever have gone on to win the crown.

Walter Hagen did it in 1926, Olin Dutra in 1932 and Byron Nelson in 1945.

But as Ford said, the day he won the medal:
"I'm not superstitious, I'm for money."

And that's what he was going for today.

Donovan is Latest Proof That It's Never Too Late to Pitch

CHICAGO—NEA—Dick Donovan of the White Sox furnishes the latest bit of evidence that it is never too old to learn how to pitch.

Kicked around in the minors and in trial with the Braves and Tigers, Donovan in Atlanta last season bumped into the fellow he needed most. Whitlow Wyatt gave the big Irishman the Allen Sothoron treatment, which the Georgian himself got in Milwaukee in to hold his temper, convinced him he needed one more pitch. It's a non-explosive Donovan with a slider who's winning for the Chicago Americans.

Wyatt, who was to go on to be the Dodgers' ace, no doubt recalled how he was chased out of old League Park in Cleveland, when Ben Chapman, then of the Red Sox, stole home on him. Whit had spent nine years with the Tigers, White Sox and Indians. Was 30 years old when the Cleveland club sent him to Milwaukee.

any harder, hit the ball any farther. All he can do is hit the ball safely oftener.

Southpaws usually require more time to acquire control than right-handers.

Robert Moses Grove, for instance, remained in the International League longer than he should have and it was three years before Lonaconing Letty could get the ball over the plate with any degree of consistency in the American League.

Wild Bill Hallahan didn't have the tag for nothing for several years in the minors and three more with the Cardinals. Tommy Byrne was brought back by the Yankees when it was demonstrated that he could hit the target in Seattle.

Given up on by the Tigers, Carl Hubbell developed the screwball in the Texas League, Dazzy Vance spent 10 seasons in the minors, had three major league trials before he found the range. Scouts didn't consider Jim Turner and Lou Fette fast enough, but each won 20 games for the Braves when they came up at 32 and 30, respectively.

Wiley Moore was 30 when the Yankees paged him for his sinker in relief. The Cubs had turned back Hugh Casey and the burly right-hander had been in the minors several years when Scott Ted McGray suggested to the Brooklyn brass that he might be just what the doctor ordered in relief. Ellis Kinder wasted many a year down below.

Eddie Sawyer saw something in Jim Konstanty in the International League, was convinced that his assortment of pitches and control would put out major league fires.

There's hope for every old pitcher in the minors.

All he has to do is find the proper gimmick.

Pitching is a science, however, and when these specialists or freaks acquire the knack they can be very tough to beat. Any one of a lot of little things can turn an ordinary pitcher into a remarkable one. A pitcher can add a pitch, as Donovan tacked on the slider. He can develop a change of pace or learn how to set up hitters for one pitch with another.

The day in and day out ball player can't run any faster, throw

SUCCESS AT LAST

Stengel Worried, Marion is Relaxed as Yankees, White Sox Open 3-Game Series

By United Press
The figures will tell you that the Yankees are the league leaders as they open their critical three-game series with the runner-up White Sox in New York tonight, but you never could tell it from the faces of rival skippers Casey Stengel and Marty Marion.

Stengel's seamy "phys" wore a worried frown after a meeting with Yankee officials on what to do about their shaky pitching staff.

Marion, whose surging Sox have won 10 out of 14 games since the All-Star game, sported a relaxed grin as he sized up his own steady pitching and drawled, "Road trips don't scare me."

Although the Yankees go into tonight's fray at Yankee Stadium with a "one game" lead, the White Sox could take over the lead by three percentage points by a victory. To get that big win, Marion was sending out young righthander Dick Donovan (13-3), who has beaten the Yanks three times this year without a loss. Stengel was countering with southpaw Tommy Byrne (8-2), the one-time "wild man" who has not beaten the Sox this year and has lost to them once.

Seven losses in the last nine games has the Yankee pitching staff staggering and has Stengel talking to himself.

"Pitchers Ain't Pitchin'..." "The pitchers ain't pitchin' the hitters ain't hittin', and they don't look like they're ever gonna catch 'em," Casey grumbled as he headed into a crisis meeting with George Weiss, the Yankee general manager.

The Stengel-Weiss talks centered around pitching, of course, since the staff's top winners, Bob Turley and Whitey Ford, suddenly can't put the cat out and relievers Jim Konstanty and Tom Morgan haven't helped much. Tom prospect on the farms is Don Larsen, the former Baltimore Oriole who has a 10-2 mark at Denver for the American Association. Deadline for calling up players is Aug. 1, so the Yankee brass has to make up its mind quickly.

The lanky Marion, on the other hand, doesn't seem a bit perturbed at the idea of starting a 20 game road trip because "we do just about as well on the road as we do at home." The figures say Marty is right—at home the Sox have won 33, lost 21, percentage .611; away, they have won 24, lost 16, percentage .600.

"Sure, this trip is important," said Marion. "And the Yankees usually are murder at home. I just hope we can stay with them. Well, we'll just go on playing them one at a time, same as we've been doing."

While the Yankees and White Sox are clawing each other, the Cleveland Indians—also only one game out—could move in front by demolishing Boston in a series starting tonight. Or Boston, only four games out, could move up into contention.

Peaceful National League
In contrast to the hectic battle in the American league, things are peaceful in the National league as the pacemaking Dodgers embark on their longest western swing of the season, 14 games. Having just turned back a threat from runner-up Milwaukee by splitting a four-game series with the Braves in Brooklyn, the Dodgers remain 13 1/2 games ahead.

Moreover, the ailing Dodger pitching staff shows signs of returning health. Sore-armed Carl Erskine is ready again; Russ Meyer comes off the disabled list Thursday; and Johnny Podres expects to be ready by weekend. Brooklyn opens its tour tonight at Cincinnati with big Don Newcombe the likely starter in search of his 17th victory.

If Newk gets it, he'll be just four days behind the pace set by Dizzy Dean in 1934, when he won 30 games.

Milwaukee opens a home stand with a night game against Philadelphia and runs smack into another ace shooting for his 17th victory.

6 New Plaques In Baseball's Hall of Fame
HALL OF FAME, N. Y. — This little lakeside town where a Civil War general is said to have founded the game of baseball settled back into its quiet way of life today, leaving the normal stream of tourists to examine six shiny new plaques in baseball's Hall of Fame.

The plaques honor the six all-time stars of the diamond who were officially inducted into the Hall in Monday's colorful ceremonies—Joe DiMaggio, Ted Lyons, Dazzy Vance, Gabby Hartnett, Frank (Home Run) Baker, and Ray Schalk.

All six of the new members were on hand for the ceremonies, as well as baseball's highest officials.

At their conclusion, the annual major-league exhibition game was played at the field named for Gen. Abner Doubleday with the Boston Red Sox beating the Milwaukee Braves, 4-2, as Ted Williams and Ted Lepore hit homers to pace Boston's attack. Dick Brodowski pitched the full nine innings for Boston, allowing nine hits.

DiMaggio, at 40 the youngest man ever inducted into the Hall and therefore the most familiar to present-day fans, stole the show at the induction ceremonies with his brief speech.

The former star centerfielder of the New York Yankees concluded: "This is a happy day for me. The last chapter has been written. I can now close the book."

Lyons, who won 230 games in his 21 years as a Chicago White Sox pitcher, said, "This is the greatest thing that can happen to a ball player after he ends his career."

Bolivia has no seaport, being completely landlocked.

Holy Land Tour

By Dr. Archie E. Brown
ROME, Italy, July 8.—On our way to Rome we stopped for one hour in Athens, Greece. We did not leave the airport this time. You will remember that we spent two days here about two weeks ago.

Between Tel Aviv, Israel and Athens, Greece, we passed over the island of Cyprus. We also passed within sight of the coast of Turkey. We flew directly over the island of Rhodes about noon. About one hour later we passed over the Isle of Patmos.

Patmos is the small island to which the Apostle John was banished. While here he received the wonderful vision from God which resulted in the writing of the book of Revelation, the last book in the Bible.

At about 7 p. m. we passed over the heel of the boot of Southern Italy. An hour later we were over Mt. Vesuvius. It was this volcanic mountain that erupted in 79 A. D. and covered the ancient city of Pompeii. We also passed over the Isle of Capri. We landed in Rome at 9:30 p. m. and were thru customs by 10 p. m.

Sight Seeing Tour
July 9, ROME.—We started out this morning on another sight seeing tour. We passed through the main shopping center without stopping. Our first stop was at the ancient Pantheon. This was the temple erected to all the gods in 27 B. C. Raphael, the world's greatest painter, is buried here. We stood in front of his tomb.

After leaving the Pantheon, we passed by an old government building. Our guide pointed out to us the balcony from which Mussolini used to speak to the crowds in the streets below.

We saw the remains of Caesar's Forum and the magnificent monument to Victor Emmanuel. Near here we saw the old cobbler stone street over which the Apostle Paul walked to the capitol building.

Next, we had one of the greatest experiences of the trip. We went inside the prison where the Apostle Paul spent his last days on earth. It is an underground dungeon. The prisoners were let down into the prison through a round hole in the floor above it.

Many of the things Paul wrote from this prison are fixed clearer in my mind now. When he wrote to young Timothy, and asked him to bring his coat and books, he had a real need for them in this place. A very strange feeling swept thru my soul as I stood inside this old prison.

Visit Cathedrals
We then went to visit St. Paul's Cathedral. Of course, this is a Catholic church. It is large and beautiful. On the bronze doors there were carvings depicting the life and death of Paul.

Inside this church we saw the body of a bishop inside a lighted, glass box. He was a Benedictine monk.

bishop before his death. We were told that perhaps someday he would be made a saint by order of the pope. No one could tell us how long it might be.

Also, inside this church there was a large baptistry dating back to the second century. On the way from this church to St. Peter's Cathedral, we saw the Castle of Adrian. His Castle became his tomb, for he is buried inside.

St. Peter's church is the largest church in the world. It has a seating capacity of 60,000 people. Seating capacity, did I say? Perhaps I should say "standing capacity," for there are very few seats inside.

The church is magnificent in every way. We did not see the pope, but we did see the door from which he enters onto a balcony and speaks to the crowds in the streets every day at 12:30 p. m.

It took 120 years to build St. Peter's church. There is more granite, gold and precious stones inside this building than any other in the world. Of course, the place is filled with famous statuary and mosaic pictures. The huge mosaic pictures are all made from small pieces of stone, and they will last indefinitely.

The Catholics here believe that this church is built over the site of the tomb of St. Peter. There have been 262 popes since the beginning of the Catholic church, and 143 of them are buried in St. Peter's church.

Michael Angello built the first section of this church building back in the 1490's. He was a great architect, sculpturer and artist.

To give you some idea of the size of this church, it is 613 feet long, and the top of the dome is 400 feet above ground. Money from all parts of the world is constantly being sent to Rome to repair and add to this building.

Simon Peter was crucified in the year 67 A. D. Tradition says that he was crucified head downward, because he did not feel worthy to die in the same manner that Jesus did.

View City From Hill
The altar in St. Peter's church contains the pope's chair. Inside this large chair, is the chair that Peter was supposed to have used for several years. It is taken out for the public to see only once every one hundred years on the anniversary of his death. The last time it was taken out was in 1867, on June 29.

By the way, all ladies entering into St. Peter's church must have their arms covered. It does not matter about their heads, but the arms must be covered.

After leaving this church, we drove through Vatican City and up to the highest hill in Rome. From here we could see all of the city of Rome as well as Vatican City.

On top of this hill there is a monument to Garibaldi. Perhaps you will remember that Garibaldi is the George Washington of Italy. It was under his leadership that all of the states of Italy were united.

We drove from this place down to the ancient Coliseum. Those of you who saw Quo Vadis will remember this place. It is the place where Christians were fed to the lions. We could see the underground rooms where the Christians were kept while awaiting their turn with the lions. We saw the pits where the lions were kept. We saw the large oval shaped entrance through which the Christians entered into the arena, and the smaller door where their dead bodies were carried out.

We looked upward to the five tiers of seats around the arena. We could see plainly the plan where Nero, Domitian and the Caesars sat to witness these terrible scenes.

Drive Down Appian Way
Those Christians used to sing the "Gloria Patri" when entering the arena to die for Christ's sake. As we drove away we also sang: "Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost. As it was in the beginning, 'tis now and ever shall be. World without end. Amen. Amen!"

We then went to another Catholic Cathedral called "St. Peter's in Chains." In a glass box on the altar there were the chains with which Peter was supposed to have been bound in prison. The most interesting thing inside the church is the famous statue of Moses by Michael Angello. It is said to be his greatest masterpiece.

We drove down the ancient road known as the old Appian Way. It is the famous road leading into Rome.

Soon we came to the old Domitilla Catacombs. This is one of the several old underground cata-combs in and near Rome. The catacombs are the places where the Christians, in the first and second century, lived and died underground while hiding from their persecutors. We saw their places of worship. We saw their tombs which lined the walls of those underground, dark tunnels.

My! what those early Christians had to suffer that we might have freedom of worship today!

SUNDAY, July 10—ROME, Italy.—We are on the bus again headed for our worship service. Today we will worship with some of our Baptist people here in Rome. On the way we are being told about some of the places of interest.

We have just seen the ancient Aurelian walls of Rome. At this place the heart of Keats and the body of Shelly and other famous poets are buried. We also saw the famous Horatius Bridge.

Mrs. Taylor Plays Organ

We went inside the Church of the Holy Stair Case. It is in here that the staircase, which used to be in Pilates Hall, is now located. It was brought here from Jerusalem. We saw hundreds of Catholics crawling on their knees up these stairs which now lead into a chapel.

Just across the narrow street we saw St. John's Lateran church. This is the mother of all Catholic churches in Rome. In fact, it is located in the center of what used to be the Vatican. On top of the church we saw the statues of Christ and His Twelve Apostles.

By the way, Rome is a city filled with thousands and thousands of statues and monuments.

At 11 a. m. we entered the Baptist church on Urbana street. Rev. Recci is the pastor. The sanctuary was filled with Italian Baptists. It appeared to have a capacity of about one hundred-fifty people.

Mrs. Noel M. Taylor of our party, was called upon to play the old pump organ. Dr. Roy Starmer came into the service to assist. He is in charge of all of the Baptist work in Rome.

Hymns were chosen which both the Romans and Americans knew. We sang, for instance, the song: "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." As we sang in English the Romans sang in Italian.

Tour Southern Baptist Work
The pastor then read the 100th Psalm in Italian. After another hymn, both Rev. Recci and Dr. Noel M. Taylor led in the prayer of invocation.

Rev. Recci, the pastor, then read from the book of Joshua, Chapter 24, in the Old Testament, and from the book of Matthew, Chapter 8, of the New Testament.

Although I could not understand the Italian language used in the worship service, I do feel a kindred spirit as we worshipped together on this Lord's Day. The service was closed with the singing of, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds."

Dr. Noel M. Taylor brought a short message to the congregation through an interpreter.

As we rode on the bus back to our hotel for lunch, I noticed that the leading theatres were showing "Oklahoma" and "Cinerama."

At 2 p. m. we started out on a tour of the Southern Baptist work in Rome. There are 56 Southern Baptist churches in Italy and sixty missions where there is regular preaching. There are at present about 3,500 Southern Baptists in Italy.

Our first stop was at the downtown Baptist headquarters building. The offices of the Baptist leaders are located here. Also, the literature for all of our Baptist work is printed here. We saw the offset printing press on which this work is done, and we were given samples of printing.

Our next stop was out at the Baptist orphanage in Rome. It has been in existence for the past 15 years. The children from this home attend the public schools. Today, they do not suffer from any persecution. At first they did. However, they have proven to be the best behaved children in the schools. This has resulted in the public school teachers requesting them to sing and to offer special programs.

Baptists Have Legal Standing
We went through the lovely Mathis Chapel and the boys and girls' homes. We are very proud of our work here in Italy.

We have been told that the largest communist party outside Russia is now located in Italy. Many of the communists are joining the Catholic church. It is thought that within the near future an understanding between the Catholics and Communists will take place.

You have perhaps noticed in your newspapers something of the trouble that the Church of Christ people are having here. This was explained to us in this way: The Baptists in Italy have a legal standing with the Catholic government.

It is somewhat like a church being incorporated in the United States. (Our First Baptist church in Vandalia is incorporated.) The Church of Christ people came to Italy as tourists and started their work as such. In other words they did not incorporate their work. This is the cause of their trouble with the government.

ROME, Italy—July 11—We are leaving Rome early this morning, by plane, for Zurich, Switzerland. We were supposed to travel to Zurich from Rome by train, but for some reason unknown to us, those plans have been changed. We are all a little disappointed, because that train ride is supposed to be one of the most scenic in the world.

ZURICH, July 12.—We have been out to the Baptist Seminary in Ruschlikon. This is a suburb of Zurich. This is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful campuses that I have ever seen. The property used to be the home of a Swiss prince. He had no heirs, and he donated it to Baptists for the purpose of establishing a Baptist Seminary. At present there are 65 students from 19 nations enrolled.

There are thirteen Baptist churches here with an enrollment of more than 1400 members. Three languages are spoken in Switzerland which are, French, Italian and English.

We are leaving this afternoon for Paris, France. The next installment will begin there.

VARIETY PROGRAM FOR SALINE COUNTY FAIR

New Miss Saline County Will Be Crowned Aug. 5

Annual Beauty Pageant And Auto Show One Of Fair's Highlights

One of the top highlights of the fair has always been the Harrisburg Jaycees' Saline County Beauty Pageant and Auto Show, and this year is no exception.

On Friday night, Aug. 5, the Jaycees will present their seventh annual parade of Saline county beauties, who will be competing for the title of "Miss Saline County" to succeed last year's winner, Miss Eugenia Gollhofer. Eighteen good-looking gals, sponsored by business firms in Harrisburg, Carver Mills, Eldorado, and Raleigh, will display their charms in formal and in bathing suits for the honor of being "Miss Saline County of 1955," and if previous contests are any indication, the judges will have a tough time making the final decision.

This year's beauty pageant lineup:

Wanda Smith
Suzie Kihlmire
Dorris Ann Morris
Nettie Ann Gholson
Claudetta Justice
Beverly Parsons
Janice Harrawood
Norma Simpson
Jean Abney
Bonita Matthews
Beth Dean
Dorothy Hanning
Janice Stiff
Lee Anna Cummins
Mary Helen Burroughs
Joan Gail Burroughs
Carol Lightfoot

Sponsors of the contestants are Mac's Car & Home Supply, Sullivan Loan Co., Uzzle Appliance Co., The Dari-Bar, Skaggs Pharmacy, Myrons, Hart's Department Store, Fashion Palace, Polk's Shoe Store, John Stelle Associates, Delta Theta Tau, Dairy Brand, Coca-Cola Bottling Company, and Athletic House. To Display New Cars

The girls will be brought to the stage in convertibles, and will appear first in evening gowns for the judges. Then, while results of the first half of the contest are being tabulated, and while the girls are changing clothes, another crowd-pleasing event takes place as Saline county automobile dealers display their gleaming new 1955 cars to the audience. The cars will parade before the crowd one by one, while the announcer provides a brief description of each car.

After the auto show is completed, the girls appear again, this time in bathing suits, for the second half of the judging. Then the results are tabulated and the three top finishers are announced, with the new "Miss Saline County" introduced last. She will then be escorted to her throne and crowned by last year's queen, Miss Gollhofer.

Harrisburg Jaycees have been working hard on the contest, to be sure, to provide another crowd-pleasing spectacle in the tradition of past years, and as usual, the largest crowd of the fair is expected.

Western Horse Show on Monday Night of Fair

One of the most beautiful sights to grace the grounds of a county fair is the Western Horse show and the Saline County Agricultural association is spending more than a thousand dollars in securing a fine one for its patrons.

The Western Horse show will be held Monday night, second day of the fair, starting at 7:30 p. m. and a total of $1,110 will be offered in premiums.

The show will consist of seven classes as follows: Pleasure horses; handy horse; pony 50 inches or under; flag race; walking horse; barrel race; cutting horse. Six premiums of $35, $30, $25, $20, $15 and $10 will be offered in each class except the cutting horse, in which they will be $75, $65, $55, $45, $35 and $25.

Judge for this event will be the well-known Charles Lynn of Mason City, Ill. Arnold (Dutch) Stafford of Harrisburg will be the announcer and John Hettterscheidt, also of Harrisburg, will be ringmaster.

All entries for this show must be made by 6 p. m. Monday, the day of the show, and no entries by phone or mail will be accepted.

All horses must be shown in Western tack and riders must wear full Western dress in the Western classes.

Admission Prices

The admission prices to the Saline county fairgrounds are: Adult 50 cents, child 6 to 12 25 cents, child under 6 accompanied by parent free.

OSTRICHES PULLING SULKIES will be a part of the Gene Holter Animal Variety show to be featured both afternoon and night on Thursday, Aug. 4, at the Saline county fair. Also on the program will be Arabian racing camels and local riders have been secured to take part in the fun.

Racing Camels, Ostriches Pulling Sulkeys Will Be Feature of Animal Variety Show at the Fair

You've asked for something different. Here it is! Ostriches that race pulling sulkeys and Arabian racing camels are to be a part of the Gene Holter Animal Variety show to be featured both afternoon and night on Thursday, Aug. 4, at the Saline county fair.

And local men have been secured to take part in the racing. George D. Barnes reports that there will be three ostrich races with the following driving the big birds:

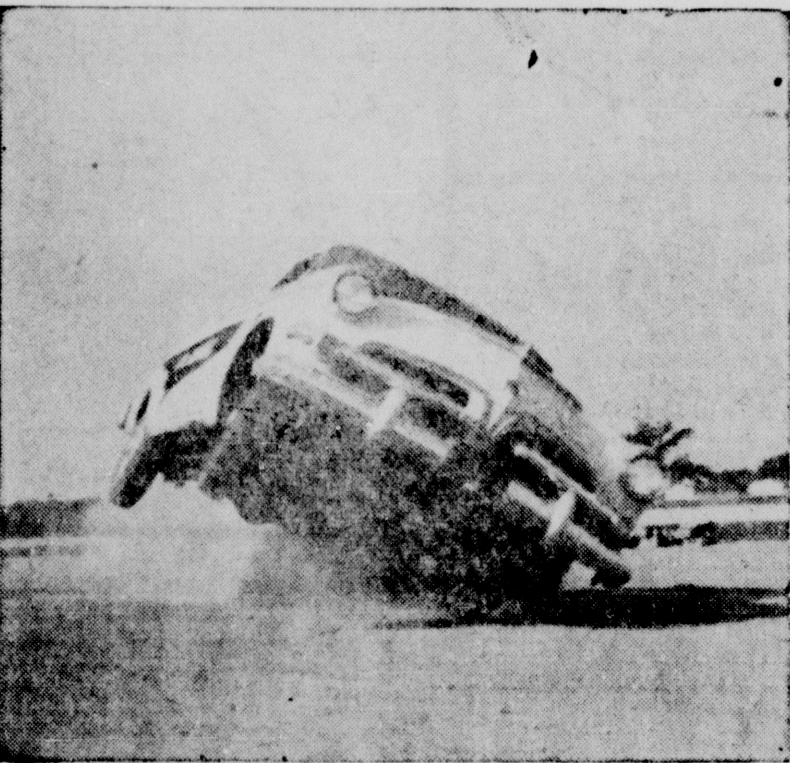

Charles Emil Taylor, Buck Schierle, Catfish Wilmoth, Tubby Horning, Charlie Skaggs, Byford Westbrook, and Ronnie Mitchell, all of Harrisburg, Bill Oglesby of Galatia and Bill Scribner of Eldorado.

Arnold "Dutch" Stafford has rounded up a half dozen men to ride the racing camels, and they are:

George A. Alexander of Harrisburg, Sam Stafford of south of Harrisburg, John Hettterscheidt of Harrisburg, Bob Sims Jr. of Harrisburg, Morris Beasley of Wason, and Muriel Holland of Harrisburg. Dutch himself will hold himself in reserve.

Gene Holter, one of Hollywood's top animal trainers, tells us there are two kinds of camels. The dromedary and the bactrian. The dromedary is a single humped camel with long legs and used chiefly for racing or riding, while the bactrian camel is the two humped variety which is heavy in the body and has shorter legs.

As compared with horses the dromedary would rate like a race horse and the bactrian with a large work horse. You probably know that in Arabia, camel racing is as old as history and that camels are raced as we race horses, it is strange camel races never before were made popular in the United States. Camels can run nearly as fast as a horse and when it comes to distance they far outrun horses, on many occasions in Arabia 100 to 500 mile races have been held. They are at home on the soft sand and with their broad padded feet skim across the top of sand dunes, while a horse sinks in and soon tires.

WHERE WILL THE DIMPLE BE?—The driver of this skidding sedan could well be singing the refrain from this popular song for it appears certain that he will roll over in his brand new auto. It is also certain that if he does the job of pounding out the dimples will fall on him as each of the Hell Drivers with the Jack Kochman show are expert body and fender men as well as being mechanics and stunt men. The Hell Drivers' thrill show will be presented at the Saline county fair Wednesday night, Aug. 3.

Kids to Get Break Two Times During Fair

There are a couple of times during the Saline county fair, July 31-Aug. 5, that the kiddies will get a real break.

Tuesday, Aug. 2, has been designated as Kid's Day, with free admission and carnival rides for only nine cents until 5 p. m.

Then again on Friday afternoon there will be the carnival rides again for nine cents.

Hell Drivers Are Group of Ordinary Men

A group of ordinary young men will be moving into town in a few days together with their wives and in some cases children. For the most part there is nothing to separate these men from the people they will be mingling with on Main street but one outstanding exception. For these are the men that risk life and limb at your fair as members of the Jack Kochman Hell Drivers.

In ages they range from 18 to 45 and for most this will be more than ten years that they have been travelling with this outstanding troupe of auto daredevils.

The reasons behind their going a thrill show are many and varied, however, one fact stands out and that is that every one of these daring drivers are filled with the wanderlust and crave the thrills of torturing stock automobiles through almost unbelievable feats.

Neil Hamilton and his wife, Anne, have been a part of the organization for over twelve years and spring finds Neil locking the door of his small garage in Lake Worth, Florida, to hitch his trailer to one of Jack Kochman's new cars and he is off on another tour wagging his home behind him. Neil, Jr., is with the United States Army on overseas duty and has no desire to follow in his famous dad's footsteps.

Leaping automobiles through space while another car sprints across the track beneath has become routine to the men but among the women one can sense that apprehension and fear each time a loved one heads down the track bent on destruction of the machine he handles so expertly. The Hell Drivers will appear at the Saline county fair for the Wednesday night program.

Greyhound Racing Will Be Feature at Saline County Fair Tuesday Night, Aug. 2

Lucky Dogs is an apt title for the show feature which will be presented at the Saline county fair the night of Tuesday, Aug. 2.

The 100 canines who travel with the troupe are in their element when allowed to race at breakneck speed after the mechanical rabbit attached to an even faster moving motorcycle.

The amazing speed of the greyhound—up to 50 more miles per hour—makes it one of the fastest four-legged animals on earth. Its body weight is so evenly distributed that grace in motion is created whether the dogs walk, trot or race at full speed.

The greyhound has been valued as a racing dog from about 4,000 B. C., the time of the Fourth Dynasty of Egypt, according to historical records. It made its way into Western Europe and the British Isles as early as the eighth cen-

$20,484 in Premiums for Fair Exhibits

Will Be Divided Among Exhibitors In Various Groups

More than $20,000 in premiums will be offered by the Saline County Agricultural association during the running of the 49th annual Saline County Agricultural fair which starts July 31 and runs through August 5.

The total amount is $20,484, to be divided among exhibitors in cattle, sheep, swine, agricultural products, floriculture, textiles and fine arts, culinary items, the junior department and the western horse show.

Biggest amount, $7,950, is offered in the dairy cattle classes. Stanley Wilson Jr. is superintendent of this department, which is offering premiums to exhibitors of Ayrshires, Guernseys, Holsteins, Jerseys and Brown Swiss. A trophy also will go to the champion dairy cow.

Cattle Premiums

Next biggest amount, $6,360, is offered in the beef and dual purpose cattle department, of which Lawrence Smith is superintendent. Premiums will be offered for Horned or Polled Herefords, Aberdeen Angus, Shorthorns and Red Polled cattle. The champion beef cow will receive a trophy.

John Endsley Sr. is superintendent of the Sheep department, in which $1,440 will be offered. He also is superintendent of the Swine department, which is offering $1,800.

Other departments, their superintendents, and the amounts offered in premiums:

Agricultural products, Edwin J. Thompson, $357.
Floriculture department, Mrs. Carl Rude, $204.

Textiles and Fine Arts department, Mrs. Russell Malan and Mrs. Hudson Mugge, $900.

Entries Close Aug. 1
Culinary department, Mrs. E. Bishop Hill, $165.
Junior department, Mrs. Roy L. Seright, $198.

Light horses (western horse show), Bruce Polk, $1,100.

Entries in each department except the western horses will close at 5 p. m. Monday, Aug. 1, and an extra hour is being given for these entries. All livestock and horse show entries will be made at the grandstand office and all others will be made at the floral hall.

Flowers, fresh vegetables, and all animals except the western show horses, which are governed by special rules, must be in place prior to 10 a. m. Tuesday, Aug. 2. All other exhibits must be in place prior to 5 p. m. Monday, Aug. 1. All articles for exhibit must be delivered in person to the fairgrounds. None shipped by mail will be accepted.

LEW CHILDRE, an entertainer with the Duke of Paducah show.

CARL SMITH, well known "Grand Ole Opry" star, who will appear with the Duke of Paducah entertainers at the Saline county fair.

16 Local Persons Are Directors of Fair Association

The Saline County Agricultural association is a not-for-profit corporation with 16 local persons the directors.

President and director is George D. Barnes, Harrisburg business man. Others who are directors and officers are Victor Mitchell, vice president; L. M. Hancock, secretary; and John W. Towle, treasurer.

Other directors are: Mrs. Roy L. Seright, Paul Endicott, B. W. Moore, Stanley Wilson Jr., Thorald Gaskins, V. V. Brown, Robert Mugge, Hudson Mugge, Hugh Walker, W. B. Westbrook, C. E. Taylor and Bruce Polk.

Livestock superintendent is Robert Mugge. Mrs. George D. Barnes is floral hall superintendent. Victor Mitchell is in charge of placement of livestock. C. E. Taylor is in charge of concessions. John W. Towle is in charge of reserved and grandstand seats and Thorald Gaskins is superintendent of the gate and parking.

Mrs. George Johnson is office secretary.

Carnival Entertainment By L. J. Heth Shows

Always popular at a county fair is the carnival and this year, as has been the case for several years, the L. J. Heth Shows will be on the grounds to supply the carnival entertainment.

ANNIE LOU, who will appear with Danny, a singing team on the Duke of Paducah show.

LUCKY DOGS—Lean racing greyhounds, with glamorous lead-out girls, will be a feature of the Saline county fair Tuesday night, Aug. 2. The greyhound racing program is a new feature of the fair this year.

49th Annual Event Will Be Held July 31-Aug. 5; Brand New Entertainers

The most variety in years of staging the county fair has been lined up for the 49th annual Saline County Agricultural fair, which will be held July 31 to August 5.

Present this year will be the nationally famous Duke of Paducah and his group of entertainers, Gene Holter and his wild animal show which will include ostrich and camel racing, and racing by speedy greyhound dogs.

This is all brand new to local fairgoers, and added to this will be the Western Horse Show, Jack Kochman's Hell Drivers and the Saline County Beauty Contest and Automobile Show.

The fair will get under way Sunday afternoon, July 31, with a performance by the Duke of Paducah and his cast of 14. The group will again perform that evening.

Entries Monday

The Duke has been heard for nine consecutive years on the National Broadcasting company from coast to coast and he was a star performer in a full-length feature called "Country Fair." At the present time he is heard on 400 radio stations.

With the Duke in this performance will be Danny Dill, the master of ceremonies; Annie Lou and Danny; Carl Smith; Lew Childre; and the Tune Smiths.

Monday morning and afternoon will be devoted to entries, with all entries to be made by 5 p. m. except for the Western horse show that evening. Entries may be made until 6 p. m. for this event.

The Monday evening Western horse show promises to be as colorful as ever. A total of $1,000 in premiums is being offered for the seven classes that will be held.

Livestock will be judged Tuesday, which has been designated as Kid's Day. On this day there will be free admission and carnival rides for nine cents until 5 p. m.

Dog Racing Tuesday Night

Tuesday night a new feature, dog racing, will be held. On hand will be more than 100 greyhounds, with eight races scheduled for the evening. Everything about the presentation, with the exception of gambling, is modeled after the races at the Florida dog tracks.

Wednesday night there will be the return of Jack Kochman's Hell Drivers, who thrilled a near-capacity throng of spectators last year at the fair. These daredevil riders do what seems impossible in their hazardous maneuverings in front of the grandstand.

There will be both afternoon and evening performances on Thursday, with Gene Holder's wild animal show the center of attraction.

Many animals used in Hollywood motion pictures will be at the fairgrounds for this event. "Hurricane," a trained zebra, has played in 24 motion pictures including his starring role, when he played the love interest to Francis, The Talking Mule, in "Francis Covers the Town."

Beauty Contest, Auto Show

What will prove to be hilarious will be the ostrich and camel races with local men doing the riding and driving. The group already has been selected.

On Friday again the afternoon will be devoted to carnival rides with the nine-cent price tag for children again in effect.

And Friday night will come the climax—a feature to which the public always looks forward. It is the annual Saline County Beauty Contest and Automobile Show, sponsored by the Harrisburg Junior Chamber of Commerce.

On this night the new Miss Saline County will be chosen from participants sponsored by various organizations and businesses. Out-of-town judges who could have no prejudices again will be secured, as in the past. And one of the contestants will be named to succeed Miss Eugenia Gollhofer of Harrisburg, Miss Saline County of 1954.

The carnival will be the L. J. Heth Shows, which will arrive Sunday, July 31, and remain during the entire week.

There will be organ music at each session of the fair.

Duke of Paducah Always Leaves 'Em Laughing

Comedian And His Troupe Will Open Fair On July 31

"I'm going back to the wagon, boys, these shoes are killing me!" That nationally famous closing line on a Duke of Paducah's comedy routine is one of the favorite expressions of the Duke of Paducah's fans. He always leaves 'em laughing.

That one brief phrase describes the personality of this rural American, country-bumpkin comedian who with his troupe of 14 persons will open the 49th annual Saline County Agricultural fair both Sunday afternoon and night, July 31.

The Duke is an outstanding example of the typical American humorist. His unimitable style of timing and delivering laugh lines in his soft, southern drawl has endeared him to both the sophisticated and the hillbilly.

The secret of his popularity might be attributed to his life-long study of the humor of the American people; his original witticisms are clean, fast, clever and invariably of the "bellylaugh" variety. Insults, sarcasm and smut have no place in his scripts.

Never Lived in Paducah
His successful formula of reflecting only the good-natured, mellow American humor has resulted in a high average of laugh response from listeners.

Named Benjamin Francis Ford, he was born in 1901 at DeSoto, Mo., and started his career on KTHS, Hot Springs, Ark., in 1924 and 1925. After four years in the Navy he toured the country with his own orchestra, "Benny Ford and His Arkansas Travelers." Later he toured vaudeville circuits and then became master of ceremonies for Gene Autry.

He took the name, "The Duke of Paducah," while serving as master of ceremonies on radio programs originating from St. Louis in 1937.

The Duke readily admits that he is not a Kentuckian and that he never lived in Paducah. The name was tacked onto him by a St. Louis radio station. But he gave the city of Paducah so much publicity thru his network programs that the townspeople invited him there and made him an honorary citizen.

Lucky Dogs, a racing
greyhounds presentation, one of the fastest and most exciting sports on earth will make its first appearance in this area at the Saline County fair.

From the moment the eight model lead-out girls lead the canines to the starting box for the first race thru the end of the eight-race program encompassing 90 minutes of action there are thrills galore in store for grandstand patrons.

The first completely new attraction devised for fairs in more than two decades, Lucky Dogs will be seen at the Saline County Fair on Tuesday night, August 2.

The program of racing greyhounds was especially planned for fair entertainment.
The racing program is one of the most thrilling spectacles ever devised for family entertainment.

The fleet greyhounds, among the fastest four-legged animals on earth, race at speeds in excess of 50 miles per hour in eight separate races. As in Florida, the dogs are first enclosed in cages at the start of the track. A mechanical rabbit, attached in this instance, to a motorcycle, flashes by and the dogs are released simultaneously to pursue the gadget. At the end of the course, as the rabbit disappears from view, the dogs, in the order of their finish, are caught in a "catch curtain" and returned to their trailer kennels.

ROMAN RACING 1955 STYLE

AUTO MAKES LIKE FLYING SAUCER

Borrowing a trick from the ancient Romans, the JACK KOCHMAN HELL DRIVERS here execute the modern version of Roman races in 1955 Automobiles. The daredevils send their cars racing down the track side by side, negotiating ramp structures that send the cars hurtling on two wheels at breakneck speed on down the track. The trick is to avoid collision and incidentally the photographer in this race, as they pilot sedans on two wheels. The Hell Drivers will appear at the Saline County Fair.

The auto seemingly suspended in midair is actually well on its way in a ramp to ramp leap as a thrilling companion of the air-born stunt man races underneath. Failure on the part of either of these daredevils could spell more than embarrassment as the upper car represents more than three thousand pounds of steel poised over the head of the driver of the lower car. The aerial crisscross leap climaxes the two hour thrill spectacle staged by the Jack Kochman Hell Drivers at the Saline County Fair.
